Subject: Gratitude and Reflection

Hi Dr. Martin,

As the semester is coming to an end I have been reflecting on my academic journey and I just wanted to take a moment to express my gratitude for your mentorship and support, from last semester's Groundwater Flow to this semester's Hydrosystems engineering both of these courses have sparked my curiosity and deepened my passion for the field and I genuinely loved your teaching style in both, I have always loved learning and had a natural curiosity but the way you present the material is especially engaging (somehow feels exactly how my brain wants to receive it), also your enthusiasm has not only helped me grasp complex concepts but has also made me want to explore and understand even more on my own and as Albert Einstein said "I have no special talents. I am only passionately curious" Thank you so much for fueling that curiosity even further, I am incredibly grateful!!

I also want to express my sincere appreciation for every question you have answered and every email you have taken the time to reply to, each response has truly helped me see things from a new perspective and I know that you always say 'This is my job,' but just for once please take the praise!!! You have been incredibly supportive, and I am truly grateful.

I know our last class is on Friday and I felt like it might be a bit overwhelming for me to say all of this in person, so I decided to write it down instead, I am also really looking forward to continuing our work together and learning more from you as I dive deeper into my thesis :)

Best regards,
